GENERAL BOTHA'S DEATH.

MAGNIFICENT TRIBUTES TO DEAD STATESMAN

London, August 28.
Everywhere the most profound regret is manifested at the death of General Botha. The loss to the Empire is regarded as irreparable, while the death is considered a calamity to South Africa as the Sub-Continent has lost its weightiest protagonist of racial conciliation.

The Star says: "General Botha gained an admiration and respect which were unique. His loss we can very hardly spare."

The Evening Standard recalls that in the meetings of the British Empire Cabinet in Paris, his was the dominant voice. President Wilson declared that his speech to the Supreme War Council on the mandate regarding German South West Africa was the most convincing public utterance he had ever heard.

Pages of obituary notices, special articles and photographs of incidents in his career testify to the importance of the position held by General Botha in the eyes of the British public. Experts who analyse the work and character of the deceased emphasise that they are less astonished at his military career than at his work as an Empire statesman, recalling his efforts to obtain full recognition of the political status of the Dominions. As regards his stand in favour of the maintenance of the Union and his difficulties with the Nationalists on the subject, it is recalled that at a recent Congress of the South African Party in Bloemfontein, he appealed for an honest reunion of the Dutch elements, based on a recognition of the Act of Union, and it is hoped that as this has turned out to be the dying appeal of a great statesman it may effect reconciliation, which was one of the great objects of his life.

MR. ASQUITH'S TRIBUTE.

London, August 29.
A telegram from Mr. Asquith is published, saying: "The death of General Botha is, in my judgment, as great a personal loss as the Empire could have sustained. His talents as a Commander in the field were of the highest order. In the sphere of statesmanship he will always be remembered as being entitled to the main credit for the success of the most splendid demonstration in our history of the healing and unifying power of freedom and full self-government. For years I enjoyed and prized his friendship, and I deeply deplore his death."

A COURAGEOUS FIGURE.

London, August 29.
A vivid picture is drawn of General Botha at the Peace Conference, knowing that his health was precarious yet struggling on and confronting death with steady courage and philosophy. His illness prevented him doing much in Paris, says a writer in the Daily News, but everyone hung on his words. His influence was constantly felt behind the scenes on the questions of mandates and reparations, and he was always for moderation. His weight in the British Empire Delegation was decisive.

A writer in the Morning Post says it was at General Botha's suggestion that Mr. Lloyd George received General Hertzog, adding: "Mr. Lloyd George's speeches obviously bear the mark of General Botha's statesmanship." He left England a worn-out man. He had a bad heart attack between Plymouth and Madeira, from which he never really recovered.

FOREIGN OFFICE REGRETS.

London, August 29.
The news of General Botha's death was received with the greatest regret at the Foreign Office, where officials were most impressed by his strong character and fine intellect during the Conference sittings. One official told an interviewer that General Botha was one of the most remarkable and most popular figures at the Conference. He had very little to say and never anything for publication, but his influence was great. Everyone respected his intellect, realising that there was much careful thinking behind his views.

THE WINNING OF THE WAR.

MARSHAL FOCH THANKS THE BRITISH.

London, August 29.
Marshal Foch, in a letter to Mr. Lloyd George expressing gratitude at the recent tributes paid to him by Parliament, says: "If I was able to bring the war to a speedy conclusion, it was thanks to the sustained determination of the British Government to reinforce and keep up in 1918 sufficient effectives for its Armies in France, and also to give powerful assistance in the transport of American Divisions to Europe."

THE FIGHTING IN SOUTH RUSSIA.

VOLUNTEER ARMY'S SPEEDY SUCCESS.

London, August 28.
It is authoritatively stated that in South Russia, in the neighbourhood of the Liski-Novokhopersk Railway, General Kamontov, a Volunteer Cavalry leader, entered Tambov, the chief supply depot on the Red's southern front, captured 13,000 prisoners, and dispersed to their homes 10,000 mobilised and untrained armed men.

After distributing the Bolshevik food supplies among the population and destroying what could not be carried off, the Volunteers evacuated Tambov and are now moving towards Koslov, the headquarters of the Bolshevik southern front.

A GERMAN DODGE.

TO REMAIN IN LITHUANIA DISGUISED AS RUSSIANS.

London, August 30.
According to telegrams received from Lithuanian sources in London, despite the pledge which Germany gave to evacuate Lithuania by the beginning of October, it appears that her troops have received orders to remain, disguising themselves in Russian uniforms. The Germans, by maintaining control of the railway between Tilsit and Chavli, can transport plenty of troops and supplies to Lithuania, while they send back to Germany foodstuffs etc. stolen from the Lithuanian population. According to the best informed opinion, it will prove a most difficult matter to clear out the Germans from Lithuania and Courland.

ROUSING WELCOME TO PRINCE OF WALES IN OTTAWA.

"I AM CONSCIOUS OF A GRAVE RESPONSIBILITY."

Ottawa, August 29.
H. R. H. the Prince of Wales arrived here to-day and received a magnificent reception from immense crowds. Sir Robert Borden presented a loyal address to him in front of the Parliament Buildings, declaring that the comradeship in arms of the Prince with the Empire's forces established a peculiar bond of affection and sympathy between His Royal Highness and the Dominions. Continuing, he said: "It was a notable development in the status of the great Dominions, which tended to strengthen the influence of the Crown in binding the nations of the Empire through the tie of common allegiance wherein the united purpose and endeavour of all British peoples will find an effective expression."

A tornado of cheering arose at the conclusion of Sir Robert Borden's speech. The populace broke the ropes and streamed around the platform in a solid, breathless mass.

The Prince, replying in a clear voice, said: "You have spoken of the allegiance of the Crown as an expression of that common devotion to the British institutions of ideals which unite the peoples of this Empire. I am conscious that this lays upon me, as His Majesty Heir, a grave and also a very inspiring responsibility." A storm of applause greeted the Prince's speech.

LENIN'S OBITER DICTUM.

PRESCRIBES TERRORISM FOR HUNGARY.

Stockholm, August 29.
A message from Petrograd states that Lenin, speaking at Moscow on Bolshevism in Budapest, said the worst enemies of Bolshevism were moderate Socialists, who also menaced Bolshevism in Russia. The only efficient weapon against moderation was Red Terror. It was the failure of the Hungarian Communists to use Terrorism which caused their downfall.

The telegram adds that this is the first time that Lenin has pronounced himself in favour of Terrorism.

U.S. NEAR EASTERN MISSION.

WILL AMERICA ACCEPT THE MANDATE?

New York, August 26.
An Associated Press message from Paris says the American Mission to the Near East has reported to the American Peace Delegation. The report has not been published.

Members of the Mission, interviewed, stated that the Syrians generally maintained that Palestine should be included in Syria in order to form a united country. The Syrians oppose the Zionist movement, as the Jews are only 10 per cent. of the population and the Moslems feared a big Jewish influx. The Mission is of opinion that there seems to be an overwhelming sentiment in favour of the United States mandate. Their report does not necessarily advise an American mandate for all Turkey, but it is understood it expresses the opinion that much more than Armenia and Constantinople should be included, if the United States decides to accept the mandate. The Mission states that there seemed a general desire in Syria that Emir Feisal should be King.

AMERICAN TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS.

New York, August 30.
In the United States Tennis Singles Championships, Johnston defeated the Australian, Patterson, by 6-2, 3-6, 6-4, 4-6, 7-6. Norman Brookes defeated Garland, by 1-6, 2-6, 6-1, 6-2, 7-5.

PRINCE OF WALES TO BE FREEMAN OF NEW YORK.

THE AEROBUS "GOLIATH."

Paris, August 30.
Details received from the aerobus Goliath show that the breakdown was caused by the bolts of the right propeller breaking. The machine flew for thirty-five minutes on one motor, but was forced to descend owing to heat. It landed on a sloping beach and smashed into the sea 180 kilometres north of St. Louis. The party lived for six days by distilling seawater and was first discovered by natives. Then a caravan was sent from Mederah. The party expects to arrive at St. Louis early in September.

London, August 30.
As a result of a meeting in the House of Commons on July 30, the Britannic Industrial Alliance, which is strictly non-party, has been formed with the object of bringing together all associations of employers and employees now working harmoniously under the Whitley Industrial Councils or similar agreements, also organisations and individuals interested in developing British trade with a view to placing them in direct touch, through the Royal Colonial Institute, with similar organisations and individuals in the Dominions in order to co-ordinate the efforts to develop the resources and markets of the Empire. The promoters claim that this is the first attempt to consolidate and co-ordinate British industry, labour and trade within the Empire. A Provisional Committee appeals for financial support for the propaganda work necessary at the outset.

NEW HONGKONG EPIDEMIC.

PROBABLY RESULT OF FREE CONGEE.

The congee kitchen has been a mixed blessing, for it has brought in its wake a disease called gastro-enteritis, an acute form of diarrhoea, which is now taking a heavy toll of the labouring classes in the Colony. In most cases the patient often dies in a couple of hours after admission into hospital.

The congee kitchens have been under the direct supervision of the Tung Wah Hospital officials, and it is, therefore, difficult to understand why they should have given rise to the widespread occurrence of this disease. It is not known precisely whether the rice served out to the labouring classes has been of a very poor quality or whether the consumption has been more than was proper for the men.

At any rate, Captain Monteith, the acting Medical Officer of Health, has been good enough to explain the cause of this disease to the Telegraph. When interviewed this morning, he said: "There have been a good many cases of enteritis and the issue of free rice congee may have been a means of facilitating the spread of the disease. It has already been decided to suspend this issue of congee and substitute dry rice in its place, and the Tung Wah Hospital is now completing the organisation for the purpose."

Continuing, Captain Monteith said that there have been a few cases of gastro-enteritis for some time but during the last few days it has become acute. At the beginning, the cause was not ascertained, but as the number of cases increased and as these came mainly from the Tung Wah Hospital, the conclusion that it was due to the congee was confirmed. There were 48 cases on Saturday, with 24 deaths. On Sunday, there were 30 cases and 24 to-day, up till mid-day. It is expected the decision to stop congee distribution will abate the spread of the disease.

THE REALITY OF BOLSHIEVISM.

PLUNDERING OF THE PEASANTRY.

Ekaterinodar (Caucasus), July 1.—This is a tantalizing and elusive front, says a Times correspondent. I have just made, in company with several British officers, a vain attempt to reach the line of battle of the Don armies. The Don authorities at Novo-Tcherkassk gave every possible facility and arranged an excellent programme, and, thanks to their hospitality, we travelled up the Novo-Tcherkassk-Voronezh railway in great comfort. But we did not reach the front because, while we were travelling, the whole situation suddenly changed and the front disappeared into remote space.

So we returned to Novo-Tcherkassk to attend a great service of thanksgiving for the complete liberation of the Don territory. One whole day we travelled through country freed a month ago and less from the Bolsheviks, for after the sudden collapse of the northern Don country in January the Red Army came down very near Novo-Tcherkassk.

In was glorious open country, green fields and rolling downs, intersected by winding rivers, the Donets flowing under the chalk cliffs of a ridge that runs far to the north-eastward, with villages straggling far along the slopes and valley, every farm embowered in green. Shell holes from the armoured trains along the line, battered buildings here and there in the outskirts of settlements, and truckloads of captured munitions told of the recent fighting. Stations rifled of all furniture were thronged with Cossacks and peasants, who seemed dazed by the storm through which they had passed.

Only when we spoke to them they crowded round, their pathos disappeared, and they vied in recounting the terrors of the Red regime. "They promised an earthly paradise" was the favourite expression, and obviously many, both Cossacks and peasants, at first believed the promises. They are thoroughly cured now.

ROBBERY, MURDER, AND MOB RULE.

Both at Namenskaya and Millerovo, the chief trading centres of the district, the story was the same—robbery and murder, murder and robbery.

They took our cattle and corn and sent it north; took the clothing and furniture; shot people without trial, especially the old men. Sometimes they took little boys away with them as servants, and often carried off the women. They killed the priests too. Some escaped and some the villagers defended.

They had revolutionary tribunals, but few cases were tried there. Most who were arrested were sent to the Chrezvychaika (Extraordinary Commission) which shot them without trial. There were poverty committees, composed of the riff-raff, who informed where the peasants had hidden their corn, and every man who owned a cow they called a bourgeois. One young peasant told with great emotion how his father-in-law was murdered.

They arrested him one day and said:—"Confess you are a counter-revolutionary, or we will cut your ears off."

He answered, "I don't know what counter-revolutionary is."

Then they cut one ear off.

He called his sons to him and said, "Sons, to-night they will shoot me. Find out where to get the body and bury it."

The sons listened that night and heard a volley. They went next morning where they had heard the sound, and found feet sticking out of the earth. Their father lay there with several others. He was shot only because a man he quarrelled with ten years ago denounced him as a counter-revolutionary.

A Cossack from the Jundorovskaya settlement said:

The Bolsheviks profaned our church, tore down all the ikons, made the women dance in church, then gave cinema shows there. All round our country they killed the priests in the schools, tore down the holy ikons, and forbade religious teaching.

Another blue-eyed man with fair, drooping moustache, who looked as if he would not kill a fly, proved to be a revolted Cossack from Kazanskaya, north-east of Millerovo, where the Cossacks rose against the Bolsheviks a month ago. He said:

We suffered two months in our settlement. They killed 278 told them that Admiral Kolchak had taken Ufa. They did not know who Kolchak was, but said, "If he knows we are fighting here our families will suffer. We will go home." And 200 of them started for home.

PANIC-STROCKEN ENEMY.

When we reached the headquarters of the army corps our plan collapsed. Our objective was Liski, a big junction in the Voronezh government. The main body of the corps stood 38 miles south of Liski, on the River Kalitva, with the Reds on the other side, separated by a blown-up railway bridge, with desultory fighting going on. Suddenly on the right, at Isiank General Sekretsoff's cavalry division by a brilliant dash outflanked this line, drove the Reds from Buturlinovka, and when we reached headquarters was within seven miles of Liski, which was taken on Saturday. The Reds on the Kalitva were hastily moving their transport north-west across country to avoid capture, but were in danger of being cut off by the movement of the Volunteer Army along the railway from Kupiansk to Liski, where eight trains of Reds were standing helpless, deserted by the engineers and stokers. At the same time, behind Liski, a large force of Red deserters was lurking in the woods, waiting to join the Cossacks.

The Reds are in panic-stricken flight. Even Voronezh is being evacuated, as the whole Don Army is in motion, and there was no possibility of seeing the fighting on that front for many days, we reluctantly returned.

In the meantime the Crimea is liberated. Ekaterinoslav has fallen, the Volunteer Army is advancing on Poltava, and the Kubans are within reach of Kursk. Most important of all, as already telegraphed, after fierce fighting the Tsaritsyn stronghold has fallen, yielding thousands of prisoners and tons of booty. Peasant risings are reported all along the line, and it is difficult to see where and when the Bolsheviks can stop the debacle. All the Cossack lands are cleared and General Denikin is swiftly advancing into the heart of Russia.

DEATH OF GENERAL BOTHA.

Pretoria, Aug. 28.

The Rt. Hon. Louis Botha has died suddenly from influenza.

By his death South Africa loses its first Premier and the British Empire one of its most valued statesmen. During the Boer war he was Commander-in-Chief of the Boer Forces—but since that he has appealed to the Boers and their fellow subjects in England "to let the blood of the brave who found their graves in South Africa be the cement that will bind us together." During the present war General Botha has earned for himself an enviable name both as a statesman and a soldier and his work in South-west Africa which ended in the defeat of the German forces will never be forgotten.

London, Aug. 28.

The death of General Botha, Prime Minister of South Africa, is the chief feature of all the newspapers. It appears he contracted influenza at Pretoria and died at midnight on August 27 after a heart attack. The press emphasises that Gen. Botha was the most romantic figure of the whole Empire and the greatest personality in the African continent. The news of his death was immediately transmitted to the King, the Premier, Lord Milner and others and messages of condolence have been sent to the South African Government and General Botha's family. He began life as a shepherd boy on a Boer farm. He became a farmer and was a member of the first Volksraad of the Transvaal. He rose from Veld Cornet in the Boer Army to Generalissimo. The romance of his subsequent career is well-known.

Pages of obituary notices, special articles, photographs and incidents of his career testify to the importance of the position held by General Botha in the eyes of the British public. Experts who analyze the work and character of the deceased emphasize less astonishment at his military career than his work as an Empire statesman, recalling his efforts to obtain full recognition of the political status of the Dominions. As regards his stand in favour of the maintenance of the Union his difficulties with the Nationalists thereat are recalled. At a recent Congress of the South African party at Bloemfontein he appealed for an honest reunion of the Dutch elements based on the recognition of the Act of Union and it is hoped this, as it turned out, the dying appeal of a great statesman may effect reconciliation, which was one of the great objects of his life.

The "Westminster Gazette" says the news came as a pang to the whole Empire. There are few men in the world whose death could leave such a gap or create such obvious difficulties for those who take up the work left unfinished. General Botha was not only a great soldier in his own manner of fighting but a great statesman, being a most powerful reconciling force in the Empire. We can scarcely estimate to-day how much we owe to a man who at the close of the Boer War accepted the consequences in so fine a spirit and linked his own and his people's fortunes with those of the British. It concludes "We can but console ourselves that before his death he laid deep and strong the foundations whereupon will be built the nobler African Empire of the future."

THE PEACE TREATY.

WARNING TO RUMANIA.

Paris, August 28.

The text of M. Clemenceau's letter to Rumania on August 23, declares that the Peace Conference has learned that Rumania is continuing the systematic seizure and removal of Hungarian property. It points out that Rumania as a signatory to the German Treaty subscribed to the Allied principles as regards reparations and the consequent pooling of enemy assets in the common interest, which principle Rumania is now contravening. Rumania is warned that the possible consequences of her action are fraught with serious danger and the Allies might be constrained to adopt a most vigorous course of action.

The Conference accordingly awaits from Rumania an immediate unequivocal declaration, firstly, that the Government of Rumania recognises the principle that the assets of enemy states are common security for all the Allied and Associated Powers; secondly, that it recognises the Reparation Commission as the exclusive agency for the collection of enemy assets for reparation; thirdly, that Hungarian property received into Rumania since the armistice on November 3, 1918 will be accounted for in detail and held at the disposal of the Reparation Commission; fourthly, that all further shipments of Hungarian property into Rumania will immediately cease except with the approval of the Conference; fifthly, that the Government of Rumania ratifies the agreement she contracted on June 27.

THE BOLSHIEVİK OFFENSIVE.

Omsk, August 28.

A French flying detachment has arrived to cooperate with Kolchak. Fugitives from Kiev declare that the Bolsheviks continue to imprison and murder inhabitants including officials of the Polish Legation. The arrest of six thousand Poles was recently ordered of whom only six hundred escaped. Ukrainian reports state that the Ukrainian Anti-Bolshevik troops reached Poljarka, ten miles from Kiev.

London, August 28.

A Bolshevik wireless of August 25, claims to have recaptured Pakoff. In the offensive begun on the whole southern front they captured Kamysin and are advancing on Tharitsyn and Kharkoff, while on the eastern front they are advancing uninterrupted in the region of Troitsk, Kurgan and Tobolsk.

CHEMISTS' LEAGUE "OF NATIONS."

GERMAN DEFEAT IN SCIENCE

The serious position of the country in regard to the diminishing output of coal was commented upon by Professor Henry Louis (President of the Society of Chemical Industry) at the annual meeting of the Society, which opened at the Mansion House recently.

Professor Louis, replying to the Lord Mayor's speech of welcome, said that coal was the thing upon which the whole of Britain lived. Coal was our sole material export, and if the output of coal from this country were stopped for only a few weeks the whole country would starve. In face of a diminished output the only remedy that one could immediately see was to utilise that smaller output to the greatest possible advantage, and to do that was the task essentially of our scientific and technological men. They had not failed in the days of war, and he felt sure that they would not fail in strenuous days of reconstruction.

He was looking forward to the magnificent body of chemists whom we really had in this country once again to help the country. That could necessarily only be accomplished by close and intimate union between scientific men and the commercial and industrial men. (Cheers.)

The following message was sent to the King, who is patron of the Society:—"The members of the Society of Chemical Industry, gathered at the Mansion House, on the occasion of their first annual meeting in London since the commencement of the war, send to your most gracious Majesty their sincere congratulations on the peace that has been secured by the great victory of your Forces in conjunction with those of your Allies, and their heartfelt wish that it may be followed by many years of prosperity and happiness."

A letter was read from the private secretary to the Prince of Wales expressing the Prince's regret that, as he was leaving London for a few days' change, after his recent illness, it would be impossible for him to attend.

In his presidential address, Professor Louis dealt with the splendid war effort of the chemical industries of the country, particularly devoting attention to the question of explosives and to the ousting of German chemical industries. Every single chemist in Great Britain, he said, had been engaged directly or indirectly on war work in some form or other, and no body of men had the right to claim a larger share in the triumphant issue.

The one great fact that emerged was that our chemical industry had shown itself capable of sustaining successfully the fiercest and most strenuous competition. Utterly unprepared for war conditions it had shown itself more energetic, and more successful than any had dared to hope. We could never have built up so rapidly this vast edifice of chemical industry if the foundations upon which we had to build had not been thoroughly sound. He saw in these results a triumphant vindication of the thesis that in the teaching of science, and more particularly of scientific technology, we were quite on a par with any other nation. It had often been urged by those who looked upon German educational methods as the acme of perfection, that we ought to model our methods of technical teaching upon German lines. This war had shown that our teachers who had steadfastly adhered to the methods that suited our national idiosyncrasies were justified. We could certainly learn much of the organisation of scientific education and much of the respect due to science from our enemies, but we should adhere to our own essentially British methods of technical education. Germany had for 40 years been applying her science to warfare, but the science which we possessed available for such application was of a far higher order, and we had been able to beat our enemies at all points.

We had beaten Germany in war because of our superior productivity; we produced more of the essentials needed in warfare than did our enemies—more ships, more guns, more explosives. What was true of warfare was equally true of the less spectacular but no less severe competition of peace; if we were to hold what we had gained, it could only be by maintaining our productive capacity and increasing our output. This was a task that could not be accomplished by scientists and technologists alone, they could but devise and organise the methods by which the work was to be done, but they must call upon the body of workers of the country to execute them. He had worked in many lands and had employed men of many different races and different nationalities, and he could say without hesitation that the British working man had no superior as a workman, and he therefore saw no reason why he should produce less effectively than any of his competitors.

At the proceedings in the afternoon Sir Wm. J. Pope (Chairman of the British Federal Council for Pure and Applied Chemistry) read a paper on the "Inter-Allied Chemical Federation" in which he pointed out the reasons which make federation necessary and some of the objects which federation might be expected to achieve. He said to be done, but they must call upon the body of workers of the country to execute them. He had worked in many lands and had employed men of many different races and different nationalities, and he could say without hesitation that the British working man had no superior as a workman, and he therefore saw no reason why he should produce less effectively than any of his competitors.

CRIMINAL SESSIONS.

RETURNED BANISHEE.

The postponed August Criminal Sessions, were opened, this morning, before Sir William Rees Davies, K.C., Chief Justice.

Ip Pak-san pleaded guilty to a charge of disobedience of order of banishment.

The Attorney General, the Hon. Mr. H. E. Pollock, K.C., said that the accused had a very bad record as regards returning from banishments. He had been banished six times, on the last occasion for life, on the 26th May, this year. He was back again as early as August.

Accused said the reason he came back this time because a clansman had written to him asking him to come and make up some accounts.

His Lordship passed sentence of five years' hard labour.

CHARGE OF MURDER.

Cheung Kang pleaded not guilty to a charge of murder.

The Attorney General, the Hon. H. E. Pollock, K.C., instructed by the Crown Solicitor, Mr. G. H. Wakeman, appeared for the prosecution and the accused was defended by Mr. R. E. Bellios, instructed by Mr. Hall, of Messrs. Lo and Lo.

The jury were Messrs. C. Watt, A. W. Roza, J. Steer, J. F. Castro, C. W. Olsen, E. H. Castro and F. H. Lafleur.

The Attorney General, opening the case for the Crown, said the prisoner was charged with the murder of his elder brother, at a village where they lived together, in the New Territories, the date of the murder being January 14th, this year. It would appear from the evidence that there was a quarrel between the accused and the deceased about a new door being opened into a temple in order to give access to the accused's house. The deceased objected to the new doorway being made. As stated a quarrel resulted and the prisoner seems to have come home, on one occasion, with a black eye. On the evening of the murder, the deceased went out of his house, at about 5 p.m., with two buckets for the purpose of drawing water from a well which was close by. He never came home again and about an hour later, his wife went out to look for him and eventually found him lying dead beside the well with several wounds in his head, his skull being fractured. That same evening, a witness would tell them, he met the prisoner with his wife and child going out of the village and from that day until about six months later nothing was seen of them. From information received the prisoner was later arrested by the police on Lan Tau Island. On the evening of the murder the police found, in the house of the accused, a chopper, the handle of which was damp, but so far as the police could ascertain, there were no marks of blood on the chopper. The prosecution suggested that it was very possible that the chopper, not being found until about two hours after the murder, there had been time to wash it. Another witness would tell them that the prisoner was seen, before the murder, to be sharpening the chopper outside his door, and identified the chopper as that now in Court. When charged at the Police Station the accused made a statement which was very important. He said "If I had not killed him, he would have killed me." He did not dispute the charge that he killed the deceased, but stated that he did it in self defence.

With regard to that the prosecution submitted—that it could not be accepted for one moment, in view of the wounds which had been inflicted on the deceased. The evidence of Dr. Smalley, the Government Medical Officer, would, it was thought show conclusively—

Mr. Bellios—My Lord, I must object to that. I think Dr. Smalley should speak for himself. His Lordship over-ruled the objection.

Proceeding, the Attorney General described the nature of the wounds of the deceased, pointing out that they were inflicted on the back part of the skull. Evidence was then taken. The case proceeded.

THE MIDDLETON ROAD ASSAULT.

(Before Mr. Justice Melbourne). Lo Chau was charged with robbery with violence, and pleaded not guilty.

The Crown Solicitor, Mr. G. H. Wakeman, appeared for the prosecution and the accused was defended.

The jury were Messrs. E. P. J. Lopes, F. B. Shroff, W. Harley, P. A. Cordeiro, J. D. Guimaraes and P. D'eco.

Opening the case for the Crown, the Crown Solicitor said the accused was charged with robbery, on July 30 last, the offence being committed on a young girl, 15 years of age, a Miss Cornell, who would tell them that she left her home in Middleton Road and walked down town to do some shopping, at about ten o'clock in the morning in question. On her way down she noticed the accused and another man sitting on a wall. On her way back she noticed the same men. They caught up with her, knocked her down and snatched her bag. The accused was eventually arrested and was identified by the complainant at an identification parade at the police station.

When charged, the prisoner made a statement saying "I did snatch her bag. This is my mistake. I threw the bag away." When before the magistrate the accused said he was beaten by the police before making the above statement and was forced to confess.

Evidence was then taken, after which the jury found the accused guilty and he was sentenced to 18 months' hard labour and six strokes of the cat.

HOUSEBREAKING.

Tsui Tsun-Tok and Leung Leung were convicted of a charge of housebreaking, by the same jury, and were sentenced to five and four years' hard labour respectively.

MIRACLES.

ANOTHER INTERESTING SERMON.

Preaching at St. Peter's Church yesterday the Rev. E. Martin said: Hebrew writers always spoke of the Almighty as the direct cause of every event in nature and history. Of course it is true that the Divine Will either mediately or immediately is all-ruling. But when Biblical writers ascribe to God's immediate intervention acts which He has brought about by secondary causes it is not necessary to interpret the words literally. For instance at the crossing of the Red Sea Exodus XV says "The waters were piled up, the floods stood up right" and ascribes this to God's direct agency. But the older narrative in Chapter XIV distinctly states "The Lord caused the sea to go back by a strong East wind," which was quite possible at the shallow lake above the Red Sea. This interpretation of many Old Testament miracles is now commonly recognised by devout scholars.

In some instances miraculous stories have arisen from ancient poetry, as the poem where Joshua prays that the sun may stand still during battle: meaning to ask that light may last long enough for complete victory. But the prose narrator states that "the Sun stayed in the midst of heaven," ascribing God's answer to prayer to a stupendous miracle which the earlier writer did not intend.

The Jewish writings, while true in religious teaching, are defective in their science and history. The lives of national heroes are easily exaggerated by centuries of repetition, and the Old Testament miracles mostly cluster round Moses and Elijah. As the Jews ascribed all their laws to Moses, the first law-giver, so they seem to have poetically idealised the events of his life. So the prophet Elijah in due course gained a reputation very similar to that of the Taoist Sage, Ke Hung, who lived at Ch'ung hu, half-way to Canton. He, too, is said to have ascended to heaven, and on a hillside is shown the rock marking the place where the holy man threw down his cloak on his way heavenward. These old-time stories are entirely different from the well-attested Miracles of the New Testament. In Old Testament history each story must be considered on its own merits and evidence.

In what manner are these Scriptures then inspired? When the Prophets state "The Lord said unto me" were they like typewriters under the hand of God, unable to err? These men were human beings with the limited knowledge of their generation, although inspired to teach spiritual truth. Jeremiah says he was watching a potter and noted how a vessel made of soft clay would contain a flaw and be there fore crushed and made all afresh. So there came to him the inspiration that the destruction of nations must have a providential purpose of progress towards perfection. This method of using human minds leads us to expect human mistakes together with the divine truths of the Old Testament.

The embodiment of this method of Inspiration is Jesus Christ. In order to teach us Spiritual Truth He stooped to take a human body with all its limitations. Did He condescend to a real restriction of knowledge also? He asked how long a boy had been sick. He asked how many loaves the disciples had. He acquired knowledge as a child and grew in wisdom. He frequently expressed surprise, and he asserted ignorance on at least one question, the time of the Second Coming. Is it not possible then that the restrictions of His mind were as real as those of His body? He certainly spoke of Old Testament events without any explanation of the facts which in modern research, have come to light.

Modern Christians have now every aid to clear their minds of credulity about ancient traditions, and concentrate on the name or character of God which they daily pray may be hallowed.

WHAT TO DO FOR MALARIA

In Malaria, as in most other troubles of life, it is the "weakest that go to the wall." The microbes of Malaria thrive and multiply with astonishing rapidity in watery blood; it is for this reason that anaemic, debilitated people develop ague and fever in malarious districts, while the red-blooded and robust remain perfectly immune.

To prevent Malaria, therefore, it is of the first importance that the blood should be kept rich and healthy. And to cure Malaria it is necessary to build up the blood, provide it with a fresh supply of red corpuscles in place of those which the malarial microbes have destroyed, and thus to restore to it the power to repel and overcome disease.

Formerly the only known treatment for Malaria was Quinine—a palliative and not a cure. But with the introduction of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills this unsatisfactory state of things ceased to exist, as is proved by the evidence of the many former malaria sufferers whom this world-famous remedy has completely and permanently cured.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make the blood rich and red, drive the malarial germs from the system, and transform ague and fever victims into cheerful healthy men and women.

Dealers everywhere sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills; they are also obtainable from the China office of the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai, 1 bottle for $1.50, 6 bottles for $8, post free.

Jack; 2. (presented by Club) won by G. W. Avenell.

During the afternoon, K. C. C. "A" met U.S.R.C. "B" in the Tennis League and won by 57 games to 12.

SHIPPING NEWS.

U. S. SHIPBUILDING.

The U.S. shipbuilding programme has been greatly reduced since the signing of the armistice. Contracts for 754 ships aggregating 3,797,825 dead weight tons, which would have cost $479,254,276, have been suspended and the cost of cancelling these contracts was about $402,853,456.

LIGHTVESSEL REPLACED.

The Drinkwater Lightvessel, which was driven from its position by the typhoon of August 3, and was brought into Shanghai for repairs, being replaced by the Kiutoan Lightvessel, was towed out on August 19, to its station off Drinkwater Point by the revenue cruiser Pingching. During her stay in Shanghai she was thoroughly overhauled at the Old Dock, being repaired, fitted with one new cable, and her other cables were chipped and tarred. The Kiutoan Lightvessel has taken up her former station in the South Channel.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

The secretary of the Mercantile Marine Service Association has been officially informed by the National Maritime Board that in the event of a cargo vessel being fitted out for carrying troops or passengers, the navigating officers are to be signed on at cargo steamer rates of pay, but if the vessel is at any time employed in the carrying of troops or passengers over twelve in number, navigating officers are to receive an extra payment at a daily rate for the time such troops of passengers are on board, such daily rate being approximately equal to the excess of passenger rates over cargo rates.

REQUISITIONED VESSELS.

The Chamber of Shipping of the United Kingdom has issued a circular letter, dated June 25, with regard to payments to be made to vessels requisitioned—(1) In the case of vessels damaged before March 1, 1918, payment will be made at gross rates in force before that date, less savings for the whole period of repair. (2) In the case of vessels damaged either before, or after March 1, 1918, where an offer of payment has been made by the Ministry on the basis of gross hire less savings, the Ministry will pay on the basis of the old gross rate, less savings. (3) In regard to other vessels damaged after March 1, 1918, payment will be made according to the scale of demised rates, together with the actual out-goings other than on repairs, and a sum of 1s. 6d. as representing the average outlay on stores and repairs.

BENEVOLENT WORK OF SHIPMASTERS' SOCIETY.

For many years past the Mercantile Marine Service Association has led the way in its advocacy reforms in the treatment of shipmasters and officers serving in the British Mercantile Marine, and many of the measures it has put forward have been adopted by the various Government departments who deal with shipping affairs. The association not only looks after the seaman during his period of active service but in later years by means of the various benevolent funds which is has organised on his behalf and on behalf of his dependents. At a recent meeting of the committee appointed by the association to administer these funds, applicants were elected as follows:—21 applicants were elected to the Aged Merchant Seamen and Widows' Fund at 2s. each per annum; 3 applicants were elected to the same fund at 1s. 6d. each per annum; a shipmaster's widow was elected to the Mercantile Marine (Widows) Fund at £20 per annum; 3 applicants were elected to the same fund at £12 each per annum; 3 applicants were elected to the "Margaret Ismay" Widows' Fund at £10 each per annum; one applicant was elected to the Liverpool Seamen's Pension Fund at £20 per annum; one applicant was elected to the British Shipmaster's Officers' and Widows' Benevolent Fund at £15 per annum; one applicant was elected to the same fund at £25 per annum; two applicants were elected to the National Mercantile Marine Fund at £25 each per annum; two applicants were elected to the same fund at £40 per annum; one applicant was elected to the same fund at £50 per annum. A total sum of £2543 per annum was allocated for these pensions at this meeting. An aged shipmaster of 75 years and a master's widow were each granted admission, the former to a cottage adjoining the Liverpool Homes for Aged Mariners, and the latter to the "Andrew Gibson" Widows' Home.

EVIDENCE AT INQUEST.

In connection with the death of Mr. Frederick Weiss, General Passenger Agent of the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services at Shanghai, who was found dead with his throat cut on top of a grave mound in the Yangtzepoo district, the inquest was held on Aug. 23 morning by Mr. N. E. Lurton, U. S. Marshal, acting as Coroner. Messrs. T. N. Alexander, W. A. Adams, A. B. Hykes, A. B. Rosenfield, H. S. James, and Dr. T. N. Findlay formed the jury.

Dr. Julian Petit first gave evidence. He spoke as to having visited the scene of the tragedy that morning—at 1 a.m.—and finding the body lying at the foot of a grave mound, feet inclined and face downward. The remains were in an advanced stage of decomposition, the features being unrecognisable. There was a deeply incised wound in the throat, and the extent of it might roughly be described as being from ear to ear. No bones had been broken. The clothes were not disarranged. Life had then been extinct for a day and a half, or two days. Witness was unable to give an opinion as to whether it was a case of suicide, or not.

Questioned with regard to a slight indentation on deceased's forehead, Dr. Petit gave the opinion that this had probably been caused when deceased's head came in contact with the ground. The point was discussed and eventually the jury, after retiring, requested the Coroner to order a post-mortem examination, with the special object of examining the head.

Inspector G. Johnson, in charge of Yangtzepoo Police district, gave evidence as to having received a report on Friday evening that the dead body of a foreigner had been found in the country off Pingliang Road. Witness visited the place, in company with the Commissioner of Police, the Chief Detective Inspector, and other officers, about 12.30 that morning. They found deceased lying on his back, with feet inclined up the grave mound. The clothes were intact and there were no signs that the weeds and grasses round about had been disturbed. During his examination of the ground witness found a dollar. There was an empty cigarette case in one of deceased's pockets. In the course of a further search at daylight after the ground had been partially cleared, witness and Det. Sgt. White found a black-handled razor, partially open, without case or cover. There were blood marks on the blade.

Asked by the District Attorney for opinion as to how deceased came by his death, witness said he thought deceased committed suicide by cutting his throat with the razor.

The Tipao of the neighbourhood related how, upon receiving complaints as to an unusual smell, he went to the place where the body was found, and saw something white on the ground. Then he took a lantern, and saw that it was a man's body, and so he went to tell the police.

Det. Sgt. White explained to the Court that "quite a lot" of beggars died in this country district round about the grave mounds and it was the duty of the Tipao to see that their bodies were removed. When the Tipao first reported the matter, witness sent him back to the place again, and he returned to say he thought the body was that of an Indian; but the Tipao noticed that the shoes the dead man wore were particularly good. Witness had received a confidential document regarding the disappearance of F. E. Weiss, and on visiting the place he came to the conclusion that the body was that of Mr. Weiss.

In answer to the District Attorney, said deceased was wearing a cameo ring. He was not wearing a wrist watch; neither was a black pocket book found on him. There no signs of a struggle having taken place.

You observed no signs of foul play?—Absolutely none.

Mr. C. B. Weiss, deceased's brother, stated that he last saw him at home—86A, Weihaiwei Road—on Wednesday evening. He seemed in exceptionally good spirits, spoke about some games of tennis that afternoon, and interested himself in an oil painting witness was doing. His brother dined hurriedly, saying that he had an engagement down town—this was at about 8.15. He left the house shortly afterwards, wearing a white suit and shoes, but no hat, and carrying a carved bamboo cane. Habitually, he had carried a black pocket wallet with silver clasps. Before leaving, he said he might be back in a little while, or possibly he might be late. Witness could suggest no reason at all why he should have taken his life. He was always of a cheerful disposition, and there had been no apparent change during the past few weeks. He had made preparations for, and was looking forward to the arrival of his mother and sister.

Witness could identify the razor produced by the police. He had never seen it in his brother's room.

The houseboy was also unable to identify the razor.

Mr. H. S. Wavell, of Avenue Road, gave evidence as to meeting deceased at Palace Hotel about 8.45 on Wednesday evening. They had previously discussed the question of people collecting premiums on passages to various parts of the world, and witness had offered to assist him in finding out who they were. They met that evening for a confidential talk. Deceased suggested the time—8.30—saying that he had another engagement. He turned up at about 8.45, and went to his office, witness accompanying him. They remained there only a few minutes, during which time deceased went to his desk for some reason which witness did not particularly observe. Then they went to the Palace Hotel lounge and discussed business, and deceased appeared to be keenly interested. They were there for about half an hour, and in the end, deceased asked witness to furnish him with a report in reference to the business affair they had talked over. Deceased casually mentioned that he had been playing a lot of tennis, and had a pain down his side. He went away in a ricksha up Nan-king Road, having said—after looking at his wrist watch—that he had an appointment to keep; but he gave no indication as to where or what it was.

At this point the Court adjourned.

The evidence took quite a new aspect in the afternoon, when Dr. Petit was recalled to give the results of further examination of the skull. He stated that Dr. Hunt and himself had discovered a bullet about an inch below the right ear. The point of entry had been about two inches behind and below the left ear, the bullet having thus taken an upward direction. There was a fracture on the right side of the head, but the bullet had not passed through. The mark on the forehead which he had previously noted was not connected with the shot. Further examination of the wound in the throat showed it to be not so deep as at first supposed.

They took some finger prints which might be of interest in reference to the razor which had been found. The bullet was steel-jacketed.

Questioned by the District Attorney—

MOTOR CAR ACCIDENT.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE ON CASTLE PEAK ROAD.

A party consisting of a lady and two gentlemen, who went on a motoring trip yesterday, had a miraculous escape from serious injury, if not death. The party left Kowloon shortly after 10 a.m. in a private Overland car, No. A109, and when near Mr. F. C. Potts' bungalow on the Castle Peak Road, the Chinese driver somehow lost control of the steering wheel and the car, swerving to one side of the road, struck a bank and turned turtle into a paddy field. The lady and one of the gentlemen were happily thrown out of the car as it turned over, but it was found that the remaining gentleman was fastened beneath the car. Fortunately there were a number of willing helpers close at hand, and with a little difficulty he was extricated.

The fortunate part of the whole uncomfortable experience is that the whole party escaped with nothing more than a shaking and damaged wearing apparel. The Chinese driver was also thrown out of the car and he lay for some little time on the ground in a state of unconsciousness. When he recovered he got to his feet and took to his heels, and, at the time of writing nothing has been heard of him further. The lady, who was much upset by the accident, was taken to the Golf House, where her needs were attended to. The gentlemen too were given what assistance they required by two motor cyclists who also rendered invaluable help in superintending the righting of the car, which was extensively damaged.

Would not a bullet of this calibre have passed right through the head if fired at the close range? It is more than likely it would have.

But not if fired at a distance of ten or twelve feet?

No.

He would have been unconscious after the shot?

Very shortly afterwards.

And so would have been unable then to inflict the other wound?

I do not think he would have been able to do so.

Had he fallen in the same position as when found, would it have been possible for him to have then shot himself?

It would seem hardly possible in that position.

The position of the body had been demonstrated on the floor of the Court by the Tipao, and it showed the left arm underneath the body and the right arm fully extended.

"Do you think," (Mr. Holcomb continued) "it would have been possible for deceased, having cut his throat, to fall forward, shoot himself, and throw away the revolver?"

"In my opinion," witness answered, "it would have been impossible."

In answer to a juror, witness said the state of the body made it impossible to trace any powder marks on the surface of the bullet wound.

"What was the cause of death?" Mr. Holcomb then asked.

"In my opinion," said witness, "death was due to a gunshot wound."

Dr. H. L. Hunt gave corroborative evidence as to the examination. The wound in the neck, he said, was made while deceased was alive.

The gunshot wound was the fatal wound; but it was extremely improbable that deceased could have inflicted the gunshot wound assuming he first used the razor and fell forward.

Mr. Holcomb—Suppose the gunshot wound was first inflicted, would it then have been possible for deceased to have wounded himself with the razor?

Witness—The gunshot wound was fatal.

Asked by a juror whether the wounds might have been inflicted simultaneously, with a weapon in each hand, witness replied that it might be possible, but that it was extremely improbable. Was deceased ambidextrous?

In reply to another question, witness said he did not see how deceased could possibly have inflicted the wound with a revolver in his hand.

Mr. Holcomb—It seems almost impossible to be a self-inflicted wound!

Witness—Exactly.

Mr. Holcomb informed the Court that the police were continuing their investigation and examination of the ground, and he asked for an adjournment.

The inquiry was adjourned.

THE DOLLAR.

The dollar is beginning to recover from the recent set-back in its sterling value. It opened on demand this morning at 3s. 11.7-16d. this morning—which was Saturday's rate—but later rose to 3s. 11.11-16d. at which it closes.

The Chinese started selling this morning, and the rate at Shanghai went up twice during the day—once a penny and later a half-penny. With the strengthened market in Shanghai the local market became very firm and the Banks were selling over the rate amongst themselves.

The American rate has registered an advance, this afternoon quotation being 83.3/8. The demand rate on Paris closed at 65 1/4 and the Singapore rates at 165.

NEW PENALTY FOR BANKRUPTS.

For having contributed to his insolvency by gambling for two years prior to a receiving order being made against him, Richard Thomas Collins, draper, of Holloway, was sentenced, at North London, recently to one month's imprisonment in the second division. The prosecution was taken at the instance of the Board of Trade, under a section of the Bankruptcy Act, 1914, which came into operation in April 1916, and this is stated to be "almost the first prosecution of its kind."

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.

THE NEW HUNGARIAN CABINET.

NO ROOM FOR PROFESSIONAL SOCIALISTS.

Copenhagen, August 29.
A message from Budapest says the Friedrich Cabinet is chiefly drawn from the official and middle classes. The Premier, in a Note to M. Clemenceau, refers to the impossibility of forming a Ministry capable of satisfying all internal and foreign interests. He points out the varied interests represented and says the Labour leaders have either acquiesced in Bolshevism or fled, but the middle classes do not blame Labour and have embodied Labour concessions in their policy. Therefore he has not included in the Cabinet professional Socialist leaders, but working class representatives.

Vienna, August 30.

Bela Kun and other ex-Commissaries have been transferred to the castle at Karlstein, where the British were interned during the war.

REPORTED RESIGNATION OF GOVERNMENT.

Copenhagen, August 31.

Unconfirmed reports from Budapest say that the Friedrich Government has resigned.

THE RUMANIAN REQUISITIONS.

HOW THEY HIT HUNGARY.

Buda Pest, August 29.

Unless the wholesale Rumanian requisitions are speedily stopped, Hungary will become a charge upon the Entente and be absolutely incapable of any reparation.

Anglo-American military representatives, in the course of visits, have inspected centres where the Rumanians had stripped bare medical stores and electrical works, as well as enormous stores of foodstuffs, merchandise, clothing and machinery.

ANTIDOTES FOR REVOLUTION.

AN ILLUMINATING ARTICLE.

A. M. Drysdale writes in the Daily Chronicle thus:—It must be very exasperating to the two and a half million wage-earners, most of them heads of families, who are earning £3 a week and less, to read of gala dinners and suppers in the West-end of London at a guinea a head (without wine), of a Peace Day lunch on a Strand balcony at £30, and of a furnished house for Ascot week for £300—the last of which I report on the hearsay of a friend.

I sympathise with the exasperation. The displacement of money which has been caused by the war has resulted in scandalous extravagance; and, as the present Lord Chancellor once looked forward to seeing a few of his colleagues in the present Government hanging from lamp-posts in Parliament-street, I need not be ashamed to say that I should not win if I saw certain social spendthrifts suspended from the railings of Piccadilly.

It is a waste of time to appeal to some people to show an example in harmony with and proportionate to their greater advantages and opportunities; but upon poor and rich alike it is now incumbent to discourage all forms of unnecessary expenditure and to save every penny that can be saved.

MOONSHINE MONEY.

Let us clearly understand this, whether we are employers or employed, that the more money there is in circulation which does not represent production the harder will life be for the producers, again whether they are employers, or employed. Someone at some time or other and somewhere has got to back his money with goods. If there are fewer goods and more money, the goods will inevitably be dear and the money will not go far. There is now a great deal too much money about and there are far too few goods in the background. If we realised this clearly I think there would be more understanding and sympathy between employers and employed.

It is obvious, and it is freely recognised that wage-earners are suffering severely from the high prices of commodities; but it is not perhaps recognised quite so freely that their employers are equally hampered by precisely the same difficulty. Money which comes from productive labour is good money; money which comes from moonshine will in the end return to moonshine. It would be treason to say that money poured forth from the Government printing presses is bad money, but it resembles moonshine money in this, that it increases the burden of production and industry without helping to bear that burden.

The Army is not self-supporting, the Navy is not self-supporting, the State is not self-supporting. Nor, let it be added, is the out-of-work donation self-supporting. I believe that all these things are essential to our welfare, but it is necessary that we should recognise them all as burdens upon the limited output of production.

RETURN OF GOLD.

Many persons have been enraged by the unemployment donation, and it certainly is conspicuously uneconomic; but so is war; this out of work pay has to be looked upon as a tailing off of the war expenditure and without it there would have been battle, murder, and sudden death at home.

Yet it is one of the things, however expedient—and this is what I wish to bring home to my working-men readers—which keep up and further send up prices. More people than ever before in our history are eating who do not produce, and this fact reacts in higher prices as much to the disadvantage of the employers as to that of the work-people. If there were no money but gold, the hard-hip would be shifted from the producers to the non-producers, for there is not the gold in the world to overtake the present paper currency. But are we prepared for such a shifting over at a time when our non-producers are at their minimum numbers, and when they include thousands and thousands of men who for four years suffered and risked their lives to save their country?

THE REAL CAUSE.

I have indulged in these preliminary reflections to suggest that patience is needed all round, and that the cry of "profiteering" is not sufficient to account for our present discomforts.

Indeed that cry may result in serious injustice. Where a profiteer is convicted, let him be punished, but if all the profiteers were hanged it would make very little difference. The cause is further back than that, further back than the excess profits tax, further back than the high cost of labour and raw materials—back, back, indeed, to war. It is simply this, that while the State can call money from the clouds it cannot in the same easy way produce the food and clothes which money buys and that while it has drawn thousands of producers away from production, it has actually increased their capacity to consume, and has provided them with money which still buys, though it represents no production itself—nothing in fact, but that intangibility, British credit.

I repeat these things because I wish to insist that, whether we are rich or whether we are poor, we are all, for the present at least, in the same boat. Drowning the passengers will not improve the vessel; it will be wiser to set them to work.

But (as a passenger) I would rather drown the passengers—the rest of them—than starve the crew. It is absurd for people to talk of excessively high wages when these will not purchase more than the necessities of life; and there are still some very low wages. By the way, I did the Federation of Master Engineers an injustice the other day in suggesting that they wish to bring wages down in the engineering trades. This turns out to have been only a partial statement of the case, a kind of misrepresentation which I warmly condemned in the same article. The claim of the employers for a reduction of 5s a week was made in answer to a claim by the employees before the Court of Arbitration for an increase of 35s., which puts a very different complexion upon it; and if I had known these facts at the time, I should have stated them, for there is nothing which poisons public debate so much as misstatement of the facts.

In the great skilled trades the wages are more or less stabilised by legislation until November, when there will be much unsettlement. The employing class may take it for granted that discontent will continue and impracticable remedies be advanced with much energy so long as on their side wages are standardised just a little above what is essential for the healthy working existence of the employee. It is right and proper, and indeed humane, to maintain a horse on such a principle. But men must have a margin and the more educated they become the greater will be the margin they require. Unlike horses, they "look before and after, and pine for what is not."

CO-PARTNERSHIP.

Co-partnership in industry and the assurance of an industrial pension, subscribed partly by employers and partly by employed, are ways of giving them that margin or elbow room in which the human organisation, liberated from anxieties about the present and the future, works at its best. The majority ought to have a greater share in the good things of life, and especially in its sweetness and light. That greater share they cannot have without taking away from someone else.

The brain-workers will have to be content with less, the capitalists with a fixed maximum profit, and shareholders with equitable dividends. I am quite sure of this, that the wisest statesmen, looking at the nation as a whole, as the wisest always do, will desire that there should be less disparity between the rewards of different kinds of work, that the clever man and the merely industrious man should be paid more nearly alike. This would result automatically from the highest educational opportunities for all, for brain worker and hand worker would then be much closer together than they are now, and the most flagrant of the present social distinctions would in an educated nation be intolerable.

The introduction of the Government's Minimum Wage Bill and Forty-eight Hours Bill is delayed by the obstacles which have arisen in the way of setting up the National Industrial Council. Even from their own point of view of forcing everything on in a hurry, I think the Triple Alliance are mistaken in boycotting the Industrial Council, which is a step forward in the relations between employers and employed, the value of which will depend on whom it represents. There is also a dead-set in some quarters against the Whitley or Joint Industrial Councils in the trades; for those who wish to increase the spirit of impossibility naturally do not desire to see harmony and co-operation prevailing between employers and employed. At the same time, it would be a great blunder to lump all the opposition to the Whitley Councils together and attribute it to syndicalism. The greater body of opposition is more immediate and simple than that.

CENTRES OF OPPOSITION.

For example, spinners (a minority of the cotton trade) object to being negotiated with in common with the weavers, who would submerge their vote if there were a divergence between them as they confronted employers. So in the ship-building industry, a riveter would not allow shipwrights and blacksmiths to decide a question affecting him—that is only for riveters on the one side and masters on the other. This is the old dispute between the industrial organisation and the crafts organisation.

Unfortunately, the only form of organisation amenable to Whitley Councils is the industrial organisation, and the Whitley Councils are impracticable in certain industries because of the conflict of crafts. There are already, however, some forty Whitley Councils at work, and they have had a distinctly beneficial effect. They give masters and men a too rare opportunity of educating one another—the masters of dwelling upon the economic incidence of world events, and the men of showing the world-wide reactions of petty hardships suffered at their hearths and homes.

BREAKING THE SPELL.

The same bugbear of high prices which appals the small wage-earner terrifies the private enterpriser. We are all waiting for prices to come down; and we are waiting for an event which will not happen until we act. Someone has to break the spell, someone must "bell the cat." The State has made generous grants to the local authorities for road-making, bridge-building, any many other local works; but the local authorities are holding back until the price of materials and labour comes down. That price is not coming down, and we had better get on with the work at once. Let us produce, and let us admit to our enchanted circle what others produce. Only so shall we get back to low prices and low wages. The working men do not mind low wages if the pound sterling is made to buy double what it buys now, or better still, treble. But the first essential thing is to set the unemployed to work, even if it be at a loss, for the moment, to someone. The State must tide over that loss.

Since I wrote the above the Chancellor of Exchequer has expressed it in his own succinct language—"The creation of credits not represented by real additions to the wealth of the country lowers the value of money in terms of commodities. In other words, the prices of commodities rise." There it is, and what we have to do now is to manufacture—not create—commodities against these all too easily created credits, which the man-in-the-street calls Treasury notes for ten shillings and a pound.

JAPANESE GOODS.

A HOME OPINION.

Prices will never come down—so all but the Tariff Reformers are insisting—until the Government removes the existing restrictions upon imports.

"Take the case of Japanese goods," a well-known authority in the City said recently to a representative of the Daily News. "Japan is manufacturing all the fancy goods, the cheap crockery, the toilet and clothes brushes, and the thousand and one little knick-knacks that used to come from Germany and Austria; but they are only allowed to enter this country in limited quantities."

"With unrestricted importation all these things would be greatly reduced in price, and English manufacturers could be getting on with the high-class goods and the things that really matter, instead of thinking about the production of articles for which there are few, if any, facilities in this country, and would be, in addition, very costly to make here."

Giving one illustration of what unrestricted trade with Japan would mean to British purchasers, this authority mentioned the cost, now £1, of the cheap alarm clocks which formerly came from the Black Forest, and were sold in this country for a few shillings. Japan is now making these clocks, and if all restrictions on their importation were removed, the price would come down, it was stated, from £1 to 10s. Then there is the hosiery which Japan has been manufacturing on the lines of that which formerly came from Saxony. She is now prohibited from sending it here, with the result that ladies are paying anything from three to five times the ordinary price for their stockings, which were reasonable competition permitted, would at once come down 100 or 200 per cent. or more.

"English manufacturers," today, this authority added, "will only accept an order on condition that they may charge whatever price may be ruling on the date they despatch the goods, and they will give no date for delivery."

UP-TO-DATE METHODS.

"The Japanese, on the other hand, will give a price which they will keep, and even an approximate date for delivery. The trader, therefore, who must have his goods, naturally prefers the

GOVERNMENT DECISIONS ON BEER CONTROL.

CONTROL BOARD TO BE ABOLISHED.

Cabinet decisions on drink control were announced in the House of Commons recently by Mr. Bonar Law. They include:—

1. Removal of restriction on quantity of beer to be brewed.
2. Gravity restrictions continued, with a four degrees increase permitted. Beer under 1020 to be sold at 2d. a pint.
3. Central Control Board to be replaced by a commission under a Minister in Parliament.

Answering a series of questions, the Leader of the House said the Government had come to the conclusion that some of the powers with respect to the brewing industry hitherto vested in the Ministry of Food might now be safely modified.

They were of opinion that all restrictions on the quantity of beer that might be brewed should be removed. (Cheers.) But they were further of opinion that the restrictions on the gravity ought to be continued. (An hon. Member: "Oh, rubbish!" and laughter.)

They had also decided that the gravity of beer in each grade should be increased by four degrees; that the permitted average gravity of the output of brewers should be raised by a like amount; and that the price of beer of a gravity under 1020 should be reduced to 2d. a pint.

The effect of these changes would be that the increased rate of profit derived by the brewers from the larger output would be spent in improving the quality of the beer supplied to the public; and consequently the Government did not propose to levy any additional duty which otherwise they would have been able to secure.

It was the intention of the Government to terminate the existence of the Central (Liquor) Control Board at the earliest possible moment—(loud cheers)—and to replace it by a Commission (cries of "Oh, Oh!") under a Minister responsible to Parliament. A Bill to this effect was being prepared.

Mr. Will Thorne asked if the Leader of the House was aware that the low gravity of beer had been the means of driving people to drink whisky.

Mr. Bonar Law said the intention of the Government was to improve the quality of beer.

Capt. Ormsby-Gore: Are there to be no changes in the hours of sale?

Mr. Bonar Law: I have said nothing about that. It is not intended to remove all the restrictions at once.

Japanese method to the British. The Japanese, it was explained, are making just those goods which we formerly imported from enemy countries, on account of their cheapness, and because we never wanted to make them to any extent in this country. It is pretty certain we have no labour and very little desire to produce them now. Japan is the only country which will give us those low-grade goods and deliver them in a reasonable time and under reasonable conditions, and if there were a business man at the head of the Board of Trade, he would see that the one way to bring down prices is to remove the embargo upon them.
